GIVE BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF WHAT HAPPENED:

On Monday, June 27, 2011, at 2131 hours, units from the Sixth District of the Metropolitan Police Department ("MPD") were dispatched to 2300 Good Hope Road, SE #829, Washington D.C. to investigate the trouble. Upon their arrival, they located the decedent who was identified as Solomon Reese, lying inside the door way of his apartment. He was unconscious and unresponsive due to several apparent gunshot wounds. DCFEMS responded to the scene and transported the victim to PG County Hospital. At 2217 hours, the decedent succumbed to his injuries and was pronounced dead by Dr. Ali Kahun. His remains were then transported to the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner for the State of Maryland in Baltimore pending an autopsy.

On Tuesday, June 28, 2011, Dr. Rubio of the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner for the State of Maryland in Baltimore conducted an autopsy on the remains of Solomon Reese, hereafter referred to as the decedent. As a result of her examination, Dr. Rubio ruled that the cause of death was multiple gunshot wounds to the torso and the manner of death was homicide.

MPD officers initiated an investigation into this case. As a result of this investigation, on July 14, 2011, James Brewer was arrested pursuant to Criminal Warrant No. 2011CRW002293 for First Degree Murder while Armed (Felony Murder) in Newport News, Virginia. On July 14, 2011, he was presented in U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia, and subsequently transported to the District of Columbia for presentment in D.C. Superior Court.

J. Allen

After his entry into the courthouse on July 15, 2011 but prior to presentment in D.C. Superior Court in courtroom C-10, Brewer escaped custody by switching identification bracelets with the defendant, Bradley Allen, who had been arrested on a misdemeanor offense. When Allen's case was called in courtroom C-10, Brewer answered and posed as Allen. Not realizing a switch had occurred, the government informed the Court that it did not object to Allen's release on his own personal recognizance. As such, the Court inadvertently released Brewer posing as Allen. Accordingly, Brewer escaped from custody.

When Brewer was released from custody, he was required to sign notice that he understood the conditions of his release and that he understood he was ordered to return to Court on the next scheduled status date. Brewer, posing as Allen, signed this form. That form also required that the defendant being released provided a telephone number. Brewer, posing as Allen, wrote down a certain telephone number.

On July 15, 2011, the Hon. Herbert B. Dixon, Jr., signed a second arrest warrant for James Brewer for First Degree Murder while Armed (Felony Murder). This second arrest warrant was filed as Criminal Warrant No. 2011CRW002337. On July 16, 2011, Brewer voluntarily surrendered to the U.S. Marshal's Service.

During the course of this investigation, members of the Homicide Branch interviewed certain U.S. Marshals who were in C-10 at the time of the escape of James Brewer. One of these U.S. Marshals (hereinafter known as W-1) reported that, at approximately 4:00 pm, he went to the cellblock behind C-10 and called out for #53, the number assigned to James Brewer. There was no answer. At that time, the defendant -- a prisoner in the cellblock behind C-10 -- advised W-1 that he did not have his identification tag. At that time, the defendant told W-1 that the identification tag had inadvertently come off when he was being handcuffed or during some other similar prisoner processing procedure. The defendant claimed that he had told another guard or marshal about this, but that nothing had been done.

W-2, another U.S. Marshal, subsequently spoke to the defendant. W-2 asked the defendant what happened to his identification tag, and the defendant again stated that he had lost his identification tag. W-2 identified himself to the defendant and advised the defendant not to make a false statement. At that time, the defendant claimed that someone had taken his identification tag from him, and gave a description of this person as being younger and short than he was. W-2 explained to the defendant that this story did not make sense.

~~the~~ Defendant

At that time, ~~W-2~~ took a deep breath and confessed that he knew the other prisoner with whom he had voluntarily switched armbands. The defendant admitted he had known this other prisoner previously from SE Washington D.C. and that they had friends or acquaintances in common. The defendant admitted that the other prisoner had approached him earlier that day, and had told him that he was being locked up for "some bodies." The defendant admitted that the other prisoner gave him the name of the person whom the other prisoner claimed was "hot" and was responsible for the other prisoner being locked up that day. The defendant admitted that he and the other prisoner discussed a plan to switch armbands. The defendant admitted that they discussed the fact that, since the defendant was only being incarcerated on a simple drug possession charge, a person posing as the defendant was likely to be released. The defendant admitted that the other prisoner told him that he would also be released that day. The defendant admitted that the other prisoner had promised him that once they were both released, the other prisoner would call him and give him some money in exchange for voluntarily giving up the arm band. The defendant admitted that the other prisoner verbally asked him for his telephone number, which he provided to the other prisoner. The defendant advised that he observed the other prisoner memorizing the number by repeating it over and over again. W-2 asked the defendant what the number was, and the defendant provided this number to W-2. Additionally, the defendant gave W-2 information about where the other prisoner had said he would be going after escaping custody at the courthouse.

A comparison of the telephone number provided by the defendant during this interview with W-2 with the telephone number found on the notice to return paperwork revealed that it was the same number.

Based on the aforementioned facts and circumstances your affiant submits that probable cause exists to believe that on July 15, 2011, Bradley Allen assisted James Brewer with escaping from the custody of the United States Marshall's Service. Your affiant respectfully requests that a Judge for the Superior Court of the District of Columbia issue an arrest warrant for Bradley Allen, PDID 594406.
